

Do not compromise net neutrality out of the misguided belief that the deepest pockets are the safest stewards of freedom of expression, either online or in the real world.